

WHERE THERE'S A WILL

Now you must have heard the story of the beautiful young nurse who takes care of a bedridden old man, convinces him to change his will in her favour, while depriving his children of their inheritance, and ending up with a small fortune well I must confess that I thought I'd heard every version of this tale, at least, that was until I came across ~~the~~ Sarah Jane Hunt, and even that wasn't her real name.

Ms Hunt hailed from Milwaukee, ~~she~~ was born on the day Marilyn Munro died, and that wasn't the only thing they had in common. Sarah Jane was also a natural blind, and possessed ~~a~~ a figure that made <sup>men</sup> turn in the street, and legs that could have advertised stockings.

So many of her friends in Milwaukee told her that she looked like Marilyn Munro that it wasn't surprising that once she left school, she took a one way ticket to Hollywood. However, on arrival in the sunshine state, she was quickly made aware that unlike Marilyn Munro she couldn't act, and no amount of directors' crises were able to ~~change that~~ do anything about that.

Once Sarah Jane accepted this, not an easy thing for any would be young actress to come to terms with, she <sup>begun to</sup> look for other employment.

The stark choice was between becoming a waitress, or joining an escort agency. The ~~decision~~ was made for her when she could no longer ~~afford~~ ~~pay~~ the rent on her small apartment in westbury.

The ~~agency~~ <sup>P10</sup> explained to Sarah Jane that they were ~~not a brothel~~ but a <sup>anything else</sup> was no obligation to do ~~anything else~~ than have dinner

The escort agency she selected, - They had the largest advertisement in the yellow pages - assured Sarah-Jane

with the client. They were simply a professional ~~agency~~ <sup>service</sup>, who supplied charming <sup>young</sup> ladies for ~~gentlemen~~ discreet gentlemen. However, should at any time you come to a private arrangement with the client, that was none of their business. As the agency kept two thirds of the <sup>fee</sup> ~~fee~~ Sarah Jane got the message, <sup>booking</sup>

Sarah Jane decided she would only sleep with men <sup>whom</sup> she felt there was a chance of having long term relationship, she quickly discovered that most <sup>of the clients</sup> ~~of the clients~~ ideas of a long term relationship was about an hour, and in some cases half an hour, but at least she was able to pay her landlord, and ~~start~~ <sup>open</sup> a savings account.

When Sarah Jane celebrated, well actually she didn't celebrate, her thirtieth birthday, and not quite as many men hurried to give her a second look she decided to seek revenge on the male species. <sup>the time had come</sup>

Sarah Jane had accumulated enough money to ~~have~~ <sup>have</sup> a comfortable life <sup>style</sup> but not enough to ensure that <sup>life style</sup> ~~life style~~ could continue once she ~~reached~~ <sup>reached</sup> her thirtieth birthday.

Once again she disappeared, and once again she changed her name. She turned up in Florida, and registered to do a nursing diploma with ~~the~~ Miami ~~University~~ college of nursing.

You may well ask why Sarah <sup>Jane</sup> had selected Florida, and I think the answer comes under research. Sarah Jane had read ten years. However, Sarah Jane quickly realized that she would have to carry out far more research if she hoped to graduate top of that particular class.

<sup>Florida</sup> an article in Playboy that revealed that <sup>was</sup> the state with the most millionaires per capita, and that the majority of them had retired, with a life expectancy of under

After a long weekend, spent with a middle aged named doctor, Sarah Jane found out, without once having to refer to a text book, that not only was the Lincoln Hospital the most expensive hospital in the state, but ~~that were no~~ rooms for deserving cases.

(P10) Once Sarah Jane had graduated from the Miami College of Nursing with a diploma that surprised her fellow students, but not her mother she applied for a job at the Lincoln Hospital.

She was interviewed by a panel of three, two of whom <sup>(P10)</sup> were not convinced that she was the right sort of material for the Lincoln. The third bumped into her in the canteen, and the following day he was able to convince his colleagues to change their mind.

Sarah Jane began work as a junior intern on the first day of the following month. She did not rush the next part of her plan, aware that if she ~~was~~ <sup>was</sup> ~~not~~ <sup>not</sup> ~~be~~ <sup>be</sup> given a second chance.

During her first six months ~~she~~ <sup>Sarah Jane</sup> ~~with~~ quietly and assiduously about her work, melting into the background, while at the same time keeping her ears open. She quickly discovered that every hospital has its gossips who love to impart their latest ~~news~~ <sup>(P10)</sup> to anyone willing to listen. Sarah Jane was willing to listen. By the end of six months Sarah Jane

they didn't offer rooms

including the hospital matron

they found out what she Matron would ensure that she was not etc

their latest habit of information

know every thing about the doctors and ~~the~~ ~~follow nurses~~ more important the patients.

There were twenty three doctors and seventy one patients. She was <sup>not</sup> sure how many nurses there were, because she ~~wasn't~~ interested in ~~them~~ had no plans for them.

Three of the doctors assumed every nurse
wanted to sleep with them <sup>(DTP)</sup> which made it possible for Sarah Jane to continue her research
another six months and she had eliminated
sixty eight of the patients who turned out to be <sup>sub</sup> married, <sup>gaga</sup> or regularly visited by their next of kin. Sarah Jane had to accept the fact that it was a tiresome inconvenience,
that ninety percent of women either outlived their husbands or fleeced them, but she still <sup>(DTP)</sup> ~~was~~ up with a short list of three:

Frank ~~Smith~~ ~~III~~ Cunningham Jr

Larry Shumaker ~~and~~ III

and Arthur J ~~Smith~~ ~~III~~ Sommerfield ~~III~~

<sup>Frank</sup> ~~Smith~~ Cunningham was eliminated when Sarah
Jane discovered, that he had two mistresses <sup>(DTP)</sup> ~~Smith~~ had already begun <sup>paternalistic</sup> ~~action~~ over his inheritance. Larry Shumaker also had to be crossed off her list, when she found out
he was visited every day <sup>by</sup> his long standing gay partner, who didn't look a day over forty.
Come to think of it, not many people in Florida do. However Arthur J ~~Smith~~ ~~III~~ liked all her boxes. Change to → Sommerfield ~~III~~ ~~III~~

Arthur ~~Smith~~ a retired banker, who Forbes
not a magazine Sarah Jane read regularly estimate his worth at around two hundred million dollars <sup>(DTP)</sup> Arthur had ~~but only one wife~~
only been married once

the gossip assured her

that she managed to come up with one who was pregnant and turned out to be a sum accumulated by six generations

of Sumner fields

(Resided)

- another residing in Florida - Elizabeth who had died of cancer some seven years ago. He had two children, Alan and Judith both of whom ~~lived~~ <sup>resided</sup> abroad. Alan worked for an engineering company in Brazil, and Judith was married to a Frenchman.

It wasn't difficult for Sarah Jane to discover which doctor attended ~~her~~ <sup>her</sup> car would be victim, and six weeks later, a ~~short~~ <sup>private</sup> ~~wing~~ <sup>wing</sup> of the hospital. (PTO)

(PTO) ~~The doctor~~ remained under the illusion that the only reason ~~she~~ <sup>Sarah Jane</sup> ~~had~~ <sup>was</sup> ~~the~~ <sup>that</sup> transfer, was so that she could be near him. He was also impressed by how seriously the young nurse took her responsibilities, always willing to work unsavourable hours, ~~and~~ <sup>and</sup> never once complaining ~~about~~ <sup>about</sup> overtime, especially when she discovered that poor Mr ~~Sumner~~ <sup>Sumner</sup> didn't have ~~that~~ <sup>that</sup> much longer to live. ~~Sumner~~ <sup>Sumner</sup>

Sarah Jane quickly settled in to a routine, that ensured that her patient's needs were always attended to. Mr ~~Sumner~~ <sup>Sumner</sup> ~~preferred~~ <sup>preferred</sup> morning paper, the New York Times, and his favourite beverage, a mug of hot chocolate, were always on his sideboard moments after he woke.

At ten she would help Arthur, he insisted that she ~~should~~ <sup>should</sup> call him Arthur, to dress. ~~and~~ <sup>and</sup> at eleven they would go for their morning ~~walk~~ <sup>walk</sup> in the garden, when he ~~was~~ <sup>was</sup> always clung on to her, she never once complained about which part of the anatomy he ~~clung onto~~ <sup>clung onto</sup> Arthur clung onto. In the afternoon she would read to once produced - observed in flower contents -

(1961)

and other parts of the plant to get back what about the matter, probably not even as no you know, leaves in particular...

a slower than usual synthesis

Dr Anthony Grove

constituted

[The following text is extremely faint and largely illegible due to bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. It appears to be a detailed handwritten report or notes.]

(Malt)

(Both)

to the old man ~~until~~ until he fell asleep. At five Sarah Jane would wake him so that he could watch ~~the~~ repeats of his favorite television show. The Phil Spector hour, ~~the~~ enjoying a light supper.

At eight he was allowed a glass of malt whisky <sup>(pro)</sup> ~~his~~ his favorite brand, accompanied by a Cuban cigar. <sup>(both)</sup> ~~continued~~ continued on by the doctor, but <sup>encouraged</sup> ~~supported~~ by the nurse. We just won't tell him Sarah Jane used to say before turning the lights out, <sup>(pro)</sup> ~~she~~ ~~slipping~~ a hand under the sheet <sup>(pro)</sup> something else she didn't tell the doctor about.

(patient)

one of the policies * * *

~~The policy~~ of the Lincoln Memorial Hospital was always to send <sup>patients</sup> home when they only had a few more weeks to live. Much more pleasant to die ~~at home~~ <sup>(pro)</sup> Dr Grove explained, and <sup>any</sup> ~~in case~~ he said in a quiet voice, it doesn't look good if everyone who comes to the Lincoln ~~is~~ doesn't get out alive.

<sup>(pro)</sup> Mr ~~Sumner~~ refused to budge unless Sarah Jane came with him. ~~He~~ He had no intention of employing an agency nurse, he explained. And how would ~~that~~ you feel about leaving us for a few weeks asked Dr Grove ~~that~~ would

Sarah Jane held his hand and asked ~~that~~ <sup>what</sup> it meant we will be parted.

No my dear, he ~~promised~~ <sup>assured</sup> I will still need to visit ~~you~~ ~~regularly~~ like ~~assured~~ <sup>assured</sup> her patient regularly.

Then with some reluctance, ~~she~~ ~~fall in with~~ <sup>Annexing III</sup> agree to his request.

Your a good girl said Dr Grove.

Ten days later <sup>* * *</sup> Mr ~~Sumner~~ <sup>Sumner</sup> was transported back to ~~Sumner~~

she quickly discovered his favorite brand

She would then slip a hand under the sheet where it ~~remained~~ <sup>would remain</sup> until Arthur had fallen into a deep untroubled sleep.

in familiar surroundings

on hearing the news of his imminent departure, he ~~refused to admit~~

on warrenleigh ~~residence~~ <sup>residence</sup>
his own home, well aware that ~~he only had~~ <sup>he only had</sup> PRO ~~few weeks to live.~~

Sarah Jane ~~settled~~ <sup>settled</sup> in the room next door PRO and continued her patient's daily routine PRO

It was on a Thursday evening, after his second whisky that the old man said. I know I don't have much longer to live, and I would like to leave you <sup>a little</sup> something in my will. <sup>something</sup> wasn't what Sarah Jane had in mind.

How kind you Sarah Jane, replied, but I don't want anything <sup>for myself</sup> except perhaps, she hesitated, Yes my dear.

Perhaps you could give something to a worthy cause or charity in my name, also of course my dear but wouldn't you like a personal memento.

Sarah Jane pretended to be considering the offer before she said. Well I've grown rather attached to your cane with the silver handle, and if your children wouldn't object I'd like the photo of you <sup>troubled</sup> in your study. The one when you were at ~~Harvard~~ <sup>Harvard</sup>. You were so handsome Arthur.

The old man smiled. Both shall be yours he said, I'll speak to my lawyer tomorrow.

Mr ~~Hawkins~~ <sup>Hawkins</sup> of ~~Hawkins~~ <sup>Hawkins</sup> and Purbright was not the kind of man who would easily succumb to Sarah Jane's <sup>charm</sup>. However he agreed without ~~hesitation~~ <sup>hesitation</sup> to ~~the different~~ <sup>the different</sup> charities that his client wished to add to his will, and could see no harm in his nurse <sup>receiving</sup> a silver cane and a photo of her patient. Just a keepsake Sarah Jane murmured, as the lawyer took his instructions.

well aware that when a patient is sent home they only have a few weeks to live.

to Arthur large suite

making while waiting impatiently

agreed without hesitation to the generous donation he wished to be included in his latest will.

in case you have any further I'll send the documents back within a week ~~for~~ ~~instructions~~ ~~your satisfaction~~ he said as he rose to leave. (no)

Mr Haskins was as good as word, because ~~at~~ a large packet arrived by courier five days later.

Sarah Jane sat up through the night, studying the document carefully. Once she ~~turned~~ ~~the~~ ~~will~~ ~~to~~ ~~the~~ ~~last~~ ~~page~~ she realized only one sentence ~~needed~~ ~~to~~ ~~be~~ reworded before the old man put his signature to the document.

When she ~~got~~ ~~in~~ ~~Arthur's~~ ~~breakfast~~ ~~room~~ the following morning ~~Sarah~~ ~~Jane~~ ~~said~~ "I don't think ~~Mr~~ Haskins likes me."

What makes you say that <sup>my dear</sup> ~~asked~~ ~~Arthur~~ as he unfolded his ~~newspaper~~ newspaper. She placed a copy of the will on the bed <sup>side table</sup> ~~table~~. He made no mention of your cane with the silver handle, or my favorite photo of you, so I'll have nothing to remember you by.

~~Damn~~ ~~the~~ ~~man~~ ~~said~~ ~~Arthur~~ ~~spilling~~ ~~his~~ ~~cut~~ ~~chocolate~~. Get him on the phone immediately.

That won't be necessary said Sarah Jane. I ~~have~~ ~~to~~ ~~push~~ ~~his~~ ~~office~~ ~~back~~ ~~in~~ ~~later~~ ~~this~~ ~~afternoon~~ so I'll drop the will off ~~including~~ ~~in~~ ~~the~~ ~~change~~. Perhaps he simply forgot.

Yes why don't you do that <sup>my dear</sup> ~~my~~ ~~dear~~, but be sure you're back in time for Paul's silver.

Sarah Jane did indeed pass by Haskins Haskins and Pulbough ~~building~~ ~~that~~ ~~after~~ ~~noon~~, on her way to the office of Mr Kluck who she had ~~ring~~ ~~earlier~~ to fix an appointment. ~~she~~ ~~had~~ ~~made~~ ~~when~~ ~~Arthur~~ ~~took~~ ~~his~~ ~~morning~~ ~~nap~~. ~~with~~ ~~Mr~~ ~~Kluck~~ ~~of~~ ~~Kluck~~ ~~and~~ ~~Co.~~ ~~A~~ ~~firm~~ ~~that~~ ~~had~~ ~~no~~ ~~partner~~. (no)

Thank you husband Arthur responds

shall be passing by Ai's

and remind him of your general offer.

She stopped to check the notice board in the lobby. Knap and Co Fourth Floor, she had chosen him because he had no partner.

Mr Kluck ushered his ~~the~~ <sup>potential</sup> client in to the chair on the other side of ~~the~~ desk, before he sat down.

How may I assist you, he asked, <sup>his</sup> employer who was unable to come in person, because <sup>Mr. Harker</sup> ~~my~~ <sup>he</sup> is bedridden.

And who is your ~~the~~ <sup>employed</sup> asked Mr Kluck, when the ~~the~~ lawyer heard the name, he sat up and straightened his tie.

Mr <sup>Summers</sup> ~~Sumner~~ had recently ~~written~~ <sup>executed</sup> a new will, ~~but~~ he wished one sentence to be amended. She passed over the will that had been prepared by Mr Hawkins, with ~~the~~ <sup>reworded</sup> sentence, ~~but~~ she had typed on ~~his~~ <sup>Mr. Harker's</sup> ~~note paper~~ <sup>headed notepaper</sup>. ~~One~~ <sup>Mr. Harker</sup> ~~read~~ the emendation, he had not to raise an eyebrow.

I will happily draw up a new will, he said, but of course ~~you~~ <sup>you</sup> ~~must~~ <sup>be</sup> present when he signs the document, which will also have to be <sup>witnessed</sup> by an independent witness.

Of course said Sarah Jane, who had not anticipated this particular problem. Shall we say next Thursday at six o'clock. <sup>pro</sup>

The lawyer checked his diary, crossed something out, ~~and~~ entered the name Summers, and nodded. Sarah Jane rose from her chair.

I see that this will was drawn up by Hawkins Hawkins and Purbright said Kluck as Sarah Jane ~~was to leave~~, turned to leave.

That is correct Mr Kluck she said as ~~she turned to leave~~ and when she reached the door, ~~she~~ <sup>she</sup> ~~turned back~~ <sup>turned back</sup> and smiled sweetly. Mr Summers felt that Mr Hawkins charges have ~~been~~ <sup>become</sup> ~~far to fight~~ lately. She opened the door. Just be sure you don't make the same mistake she added ~~without looking back~~. Closing the door behind her. * * *

(wrote)

By five o'clock on Thursday Sarah Jane felt confident that <sup>(PTO)</sup> everything was in place. ~~Just the~~ <sup>(PTO)</sup> slightest mistake and she would have wasted two years of her life, and all she'd have to show for it, would be a cane with a silver ~~handle~~ <sup>cap</sup>, and a photograph of a young man at Harvard.

While ~~they~~ sat and watched yet another episode, in the life of Sgt Bilko, she went over ~~her~~ plan again and again trying to think of every eventuality. He would need to be on time <sup>(PTO)</sup>. She nervously checked her watch every few minutes.

When Bilko finally came to an end, winning again, she turned off the television, poured Arthur a whiskey, and handed him a large cigar. <sup>(PTO)</sup> ~~With such a special he asked, suspiciously~~ you have a visitor, and I want him to see you at your best.

who demanded Arthur ~~at~~ <sup>one</sup> had taken a gulp of whiskey.

Mr Klok, he's one of Mr Haskins' assistants, what does he want, he asked as Sarah Jane lit a match and held it up so that Arthur could begin his puffing routine. <sup>(PTO)</sup> &

Has he included my special request (this time & I feel sure he has)

~~Yes~~ said Sarah Jane as the front door bell rang. Arthur!

Good ~~he~~ said (taking another gulp of whiskey as Sarah Jane pumped up his pillow. Moments later there was a gentle knock on bedroom

door and the maid entered the room accompanied by Mr Kink

Arthur stared intently at the young man,
through a cloud of smoke. <sup>as he stood</sup>

My name is Kink sir, he said ~~standing~~ at the end of the bed

Yes I know said Arthur, and you've come about the will.

Yes sir and...

But have you remembered to include the special ~~and~~ request for my name. ~~that was~~.

Yes he saw Arthur interrupted Sarah Jane.
I told you earlier.

Ah yes I remember, ~~but that~~

You've given me everything she promised,
what asked for.

Everything said Arthur.

Yes she said ~~everything~~, and so much more than I deserve, but if you want to change your mind she said quietly.

No, no, you've more than earned it.

Thank you Arthur she said taking him by the hand.

Let's get on with it <sup>said</sup> Arthur turning his attention back to Kink.

Would you like me to take you through your will ~~the~~ clause by clause sir Kink asked.

Certainly not said Arthur, Hankins took my enough ~~task~~ doing that last week.

As you wish sir said Kink, then all that is left to be done is for you to sign the document, but we will need a witness.

I feel sure Mr Sumner's personal maid will be only too happy to act as a witness said

Sarah Jane as the front door bell rang,
im afraid that will not be possible
said Kluck.

And why not said Sarah Jane who had already promised her twenty dollars if she was willing to carry out the task, said Kluck

As she often hears ~~of~~ the will, she's ineligible to be witness. and many to Sarah Jane added

second she is indeed ~~the~~ <sup>said</sup> Arthur, I've left her the dinner service, after all she has served the family for over fifteen years.

Another tap on the door, and Dr
Worth entered without invitation.

How are you Arthur he said as he walked across to the bed and shook hands with ~~the~~ ~~old man~~. his patient. (Not to bad)

~~he~~ said Arthur, but I'd be even better if you felt able to witness my signature, or to be also a beneficiary of my will, (no)

Certainly not said Dr Grove, its against the hospital's ~~code~~ for a doctor to receive a request, from <sup>(asking)</sup> a patient.

Good, then you can earn your fee for a change, that's as long as Kluck says
your suitable.

Emmantly so Mr Sumner <sup>red</sup> said Kluck as he opened his brief case and extracted two thick documents. He placed them on the bedside table, and pointed to the small pencil crosses <sup>(two)</sup>
to indicate where ~~the~~ <sup>both</sup> signatures should be penned

Although Sarah Jane had taken a page

Doubt so as not to appear involved in ~~the~~ ~~the~~ <sup>the</sup> her heart beat didn't re turn to normal until the last page had been signed and witnessed.

Once the little ceremony had been completed
Kirk gathered up the ~~papers~~ ~~papers~~ fervently, returned one copy to his briefcase, and handed the other to Mr Sumnerfield.

Arthur waved it away, so Sarah Jane ~~placed~~ ~~it~~ in the drawer by ~~her~~ ~~bed~~, his bed.

I'll take my leave Sir said Kirk and PRO
~~hand~~ hands with his new client.

Do give Mr Hawkins my best wishes said Arthur as he screwed the top bulk on his bottle.

Kirk looked puzzled and was about to PRO
~~And so that I had but no had feelings~~
said Sarah in the circumstances

Very magnanimous of you my dear said Arthur as Kirk headed for ~~the~~ PRO door. The maid will show you out said Sarah Jane. ~~at~~ ~~she stated the door.~~

When Sarah Jane returned to ~~the~~ Arthur bedside,
Dr Grove was studying the marmoset.

Up a little he said ~~Dr Grove~~, awfully surprising,
with all the excitement of signing the will,

he looked at her and ~~she~~ PRO you do realize that if Mr Sumnerfield <sup>has</sup> left you anything in will you'll lose your job at the hospital.

Yes mother made that clear when I first began work ~~at~~ ~~the~~ ~~hospital~~, for him.

Good said Dr Grove, so perhaps we should let him rest he said, and I'll call in ~~at~~ ~~the~~ ~~same~~ ~~time~~ ~~at~~ ~~the~~ ~~hospital~~. Later in the week ~~at~~ ~~the~~ ~~same~~ ~~time~~ ~~at~~ ~~the~~ ~~hospital~~. Good night Kirk he said in a louder voice. See you ~~at~~ ~~the~~ ~~hospital~~ in a few days.

Good night ~~Dr~~ Grove he said ~~and~~ ~~with~~
not asleep as they walked towards the door
switching the lantern back on.

Bent down to shake hands

Speak when Sarah Jane said, Just tell him No hand feeling

as Sarah Jane accompanied back to the door.

and turning to one side whined

It's looking very frail said Dr Grove as they walked down the sweeping staircase. I can't believe it will be too long now. Perhaps the time has come to advise his children to fly over and join him. They've been ~~waiting~~ <sup>on the phone</sup> every day, bags packed and ready to come over at a moment's notice.

Good idea said Sarah Jane. I'll see that the guest bedrooms are prepared for them, she <sup>added</sup> as the maid opened the front door.

Well at least one good thing will come out of the old fellow's death.

And what's that said Sarah Jane trying not to look ~~startled~~ anxious.

You'll be coming back to the hospital, <sup>(no)</sup> can't wait ~~to see~~ she said as the ~~door~~ <sup>door</sup> closed.

<sup>(Arthur)</sup> Sarah ran back up stairs to find Arthur cigar in one hand, and an empty glass in the other, watching the Junnie Casan show. She sat by his side. Arthur had almost fallen asleep when Sarah bid good night to his thirty mulling wabblers.

~~Sarah Jane~~ deftly removed the half smoked cigar from his hand, placed the empty glass on his side table, and pumped up his <sup>two</sup> feather pillows.

Sarah switched off ~~the light off~~ the television and then

im still awake said Arthur

I know said Sarah Jane ~~as she~~ <sup>(PTO)</sup> switched off the light by his bed and ~~she~~ slipped a hand under the sheet, she stopped when she heard the familiar sigh, and moments later ~~she~~ ~~heard~~ ~~the~~

She removed the hand from under me by steady breathing. ~~she~~ ~~sheer~~ ~~and~~
into the bathroom ~~she~~ ~~washed~~ her hands ~~to~~ & sadly the children only arrived back in time for the funeral.

Mr Hawkins * * * removed the half moon spectacles from the end of his nose, and placed the will back on the table, ~~she~~ stirred across the desk at his two clients.

So all I get said ~~that~~ summer is all came with a silver bundle, while Judith ends up with a picture of dad when he was at Harvard.

while all his other worldly goods, confirmed ~~speech~~ Mr Hawkins are bequeathed to a
~~the~~ Mrs Sarah Jane Hunt. Judith.

And is the will legal asked ~~that~~
if by that you mean was it unrepudiated executed, the answer is yes. Mr Black is a very tough lawyer as I have discovered
to my cost in the past, and on this occasion
my firm did some most of the hard work
for him.

But surely you'll want to contest the will said Judith after all the woman is nothing more than a common thief
who undoubtedly ~~bequeathed~~ ~~my~~ ~~father~~. pro
quite possibly said Hawkins, but given the circumstances I wouldn't advise you to contest the validity of the will.

But your research department has come up with evidence that she was a common prostitute <sup>said</sup> ~~and~~ her nursing qualifications were at best bogus. one the work ~~was~~ the removal of the name from the

our name

in 1954 the name was changed to ~~the name was changed to~~
the name was changed to
the name was changed to

traded my father with signing a new will, only days after your gone over the old one with him.

the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to

the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to

the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to

the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to
the name was changed to

learned of this, <sup>he added</sup> I swear the case will ~~collapse~~ <sup>collapse</sup>.
In normal circumstances I would agree with you <sup>that</sup> those and not normal circumstances, so I still would not recommend that you take her on why not, we know she has no money, and although Judith and I are not ~~rich~~ <sup>rich</sup> I feel sure were better off than ~~her~~ <sup>most of her</sup> wealthy.

Possibly, but it is my duty as a lawyer to tell a client when ~~they can't win~~. <sup>Pro</sup>

But you've defeated Mr. Kluck ~~several~~ <sup>times</sup> in the past ~~and~~ <sup>which</sup> reminded him.

Yes I have ~~defeated~~ <sup>confronted</sup> Kluck but it won't be Mr. Kluck I'm up against. He ~~added~~ <sup>added</sup> as he replaced his half moon spectacles, on the end of his nose, and <sup>one again</sup> picked up the will. He turned back several pages, before <sup>locating</sup> ~~finding~~ the relevant clause, and reading.

I also bequeath to my old alumni Harvard University ten million dollars, and a further five million to the Veterans Association of America. A ~~total of~~ <sup>sum of</sup> five million to the combined Jewish Charities <sup>with particular</sup> emphasis on their work in Israel. Five million to the Republican Party which I have supported all my life, and finally five million to the National Rifle Association. <sup>Pro</sup>

~~It looked back up:~~ It is possible I could defeat Mr. Kluck ~~on a~~ <sup>Pro</sup> ~~that playing~~ ~~facts~~, ~~but~~ I can assure you I'll have little chance of defeating six of the largest and most prestigious law firms in the land, who ~~are~~ <sup>are</sup> between them will have told you long long before this case reached court, so I fear ~~you'll have to settle for~~ I can only recommend that you settle for a case with a silver handle and a picture of your father while he was at Harvard.

While she walks away with ~~over~~ a cool
hundred million said Judith ~~summit~~

~~A little more big my calculation~~
considerably more by my calculation said Hawkins as he placed the will back on his desk, Clever woman Mr. Sarah Jane Hunt and even that wasn't her real name.
He added